The Board of Rapid Transit Commissioners yesterday decided unanimously that all hope of building an underground railitonal, or any other kind of road on rapiditransit lines, would have to be abandoned for a year at least.

The Commissioners did not tender their resignations, although nearly all of them were inclined to do so. But they accepted the resignations of all the employes and their counsel, and within a few days the sign "to let" will appear upon the door of their offices at No. 255 Broadway.

This is the result of the decision of the Appellate Division of the Supreme Court last Friday, refusing consent for building the underground road, because they could not estimate the cost within many millions. It means that not only is their elaborate scheme of rapid transit dead, but that no other scheme can be adopted until the next Legislature meets, when additional legislation will be sought.

The meeting was the first since the decision of the Appellate Court, and it will be the last, except one to be held on Thursday, to wind up affairs and pay outstanding debts. Every member of the Commissioners before the Appellate Division, were also present, with William Brarsons, the chief engineer, and Secretary Louis L. Delafield. Mayor Strong was on hand for a short time—long enough to hear the draft of an address to the public, and to approve of it. the draft of an address to the public, and vanced

In the District-Attorner's office it was said no decision had been renched, and that the Board would be passed or not. Although the warrant for Gannon's arrest was in the hands of detectives months ago, and he was seen frequently in the city, yet it was never served.

Then Lawyer Shepard read the Board's last address to the public. All approved it. A discussion followed as to the advisability of the Commissioners resigning in a body. They all thought nothing further was to be accomplished, but the resignation was deferred.

The address to the public is a resume of the history of the rapid transit scheme, the work of the Commission, the decision of the court, its effect and a statement that contractors had stood ready to indertake the work of milied by the Commission, at the estimated expense. It ended with the statement that under existing laws nothing further could be done.

An incipient anore was the only response. The barber gave Mr. Roosevelt an irreverent nudge in the ribs.

Mr. Roosevelt awoke with a start, replying, as he rubbed his eyes:

"Thanks, no; I'm not hungry."

The barber completed his task buried in thought. When Mr. Roosevelt had gone and he was about to call out "Next!" he observed that the fat customer who had been waiting for some time was on the verge of apoplexy owing to a paroxyam of laughter rigorously suppressed.
